

Spirit of the City at Gallery South – a FOTOFOCUS call to photographers

Call it street photography or call it candid photography. We call it old-fashioned, lightly manipulated (if at all), story-telling photography about people. It could be one compelling image or a series. It could focus on one neighborhood, ethnic group, sport, occupation or any other subset of Greater Cincinnati. Or it could be a broad comment on life in this part of the world.

Our gallery fronts a long stretch of windows on Fourth Street downtown and – as part of a busy cathedral church – has extensive foot traffic inside and just outside those windows. It is well-lit and can display up to 50 images, depending on size. It is our service to the artistic and art-loving community, so we charge no entry fees and no commissions on sales.

Please email proposals and, if available, jpgs to me at nkymikephillips@gmail.com. Deadline for submissions is April 1, 2020.
