David Armando as P.J. and A.J. Baldwin as Gina

Know Theatre, “Zack” | 8 p.m. Live streaming. Lovesick surfer-boy PJ and teen fashionista Gina are over the moon when they’re invited into the inner circle of the charming but prank-happy new kid at school, Zack. When Zack plans a prank that goes too far, PJ and Gina race to stop him before it’s too late. Inspired by the Saturday morning teen sitcoms of the early 90s, “Zack” is a clever satirical comedy, set in 1991, that takes on race and tokenism from the rose-colored P.O.V. of two teens of color enrolled in a mostly white Southern California high school. Through Dec. 13.
