→ The largest photography biennial in the US, FotoFocus, is to build a major new museum giving the event a permanent home in Cincinnati, Ohio. Details of the building, which is scheduled to open in 2024, will be released at the annual FotoFocus symposium this month. The biennial first launched in October 2012 and grew to establish itself as one of the world's most exciting photography events. Its climate-themed sixth edition this October will show work by hundreds of photographers in museums and public spaces across Cincinnati and the wider tri-state area.
